RE: Sample Collection regarding individual athletes

The Australian Sports Anti-Doping Authority (ASADA) does not comment on any specifics of an athlete's sample collection testing.

Testing is a requirement for athletes to undergo under the World Anti-Doping Agency (WADA) Code and our testing procedures are consistent with the International Standard for Testing.

ASADA has a testing program that entails close to 6000 tests per year.

Sample collection is an Anti-Doping initiative conducted by ASADA on athletes anywhere – anytime in Australia.

Testing occurs as usual until ASADA receives an athlete's retirement notification form.
